Fire Follows Broken Main In Gas Line

An unusual task was presented to members of the Redwood City fire department yesterday when a broken gas main caught fire on Jefferson street. A ditch digger excavating for a line of telephone conduit along Jefferson street struck a pipe carrying gas from the main to a house, and pulled the smaller pipe loose from the main. The escaping gas caught fire.

For an hour the fire department assisted by men from the gas company and the telephone crew worked to extinguish the flames. Water and chemical extinguishers were used without avail. The flames were finally extinguished by means of a wet tarpaulin and mud, combined with the use of a large chemical extinguisher loaned by the Standard Oil Company.

In the course of the battle with the flames several of the firemen suffered the loss of eyebrows and some hair when the flames blew out from under the tarpaulin.

The boys gave their names as Thomas Dunlap, Bob Grubb and Darrell Working; their ages as 16, 15 and 15, respectively. They are all residents of Taft.

High School Notes

To help beautify Sequoia's grounds lawns will be planted along the side of the cafeteria, the girls' gym, and the walk leading from the cafeteria to the school. Shrubbery is also to be planted near the new buildings.

Friday night Sequoia will play Sacred Heart's basketball team. The games will be between the 10's and the 20's, and they will be played at Sequoia.

Citizen's Night is to be held at Sequoia, October 11. All new and old buildings will be opened to both parents and friends. The annual event was not held at its usual time in the spring, because the new buildings were not in readiness.

So that girls that are not out for any other sport may participate in some school activity, a tennis club has been formed. The club is directed by Miss Mildred Brown, head of the girls' physical education department.

ESTATE OF PETER PALA

Jas. T. O'Keefe, executor of the last will and testament of Peter Pala, deceased, has filed inventory and appraisal of the property of the estate which consists of ten pieces of valuable property in South San Francisco and elsewhere and a large block of Trans-America stock, together with a large cash deposit. The entire estate is appraised for $87,591.

The last will and testament of the late Katherine Scanlon, killed in an automobile accident recently, was admitted to probate in the Superior court yesterday. The petition for the admission of the will to probate declares the estate to be in excess of $10,000. It is believed that it will reach the sum of $25,000. The will was executed shortly before her death and was witnessed by Mrs. Joseph Nash and A. J. Steinhilber. The bulk of the estate is left to the mother of the deceased, Mary F. Anderson. The sum of $50 is left Mount Carmel church for masses. The property in Contra Costa county is bequeathed to Mrs. Genevieve Anderson, a sister. Dorothy and G. P. Anderson, sisters, are left lot 5, block 4, Redwood City; James W. Matherson certain certificates of the Investment Syndicate. The rest and residue of the estate is bequeathed to the mother. G. W. He deceased was a native of Germany and was 71 years of age. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Stuckert and his son, Charles Stuckert, Jr., of Piedmont.

Sequoia To Limit Dances To Students

Because of their conduct at the Freshman reception and other social dances, outsiders will no longer be permitted to attend Sequoia's school dances.

"Sequoia will be more truly a place of friends with only students and graduates attending our dances," declared A. C. Argo, principal. Students will have to present their cards at the entrance before they will be admitted, under the new system. Permanent admission cards will be sent to graduates, and if married, both husband and wife will be allowed to attend.

Students may get passes from Miss Ann Burns, dean of girls, for their special outside friends, if she feels that they will be desirable guests of the school. Families of Sequoia students are always welcome at any school activity, so this ruling does not affect them, according to the commission.

W. C. T. U. PLANS TO HOLD RUMMAGE SALE

The Palo Alto Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold a rummage sale early in October and will be pleased to receive donations of cast-off clothing, shoes, hats, caps, crockery, bedding, or other articles. Clothing should be in fairly good condition and clean. Articles will be called for if the address is phoned to Redwood 521-J. Several local members are co-operating with the organization in the project.

WOODSIDE

The home of M. Howard, long a landmark at the foot of the Woodside grade burned to the ground on Tuesday morning at five o'clock. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

Woodside has about lost its summer population. Among the last to leave were Robert Schurman and family who left on Wednesday and Bradford Leavitt and family who departed on Thursday, both for their homes in Pasadena.

Mrs. M. Goularte and son visited relatives in Santa Rosa on Tuesday. A very successful dance was given by the volunteers of the Woodside Fire department last Saturday night. Nearly two hundred people gathered at the new dance hall at the top of the hill.

The private motion picture show house being built by George Whitell on his place here is nearing completion.

Ettore Avenali is planning to leave for New York next week on a business trip. He will be away for a month.

Verily, pride goeth before a fall. A week ago the Woodside School football team seriously believed that their only worthy competition might be offered by the Stanford Varsity. Since then they have met the team from the Portola School and had to be content with the small end of a 48 to 6 score.

A. A. Horsford has just returned from a motor trip into Arizona and New Mexico.

The largest sale made recently in this section was the sale of the former Dr. Conrad Wiel estate at White Oaks, just outside of Redwood City. This magnificent place was laid out many years ago by George Sperry and wife and was sold for the Sperry Estate to Dr. Wiel eleven years ago by Dave L. Walter. The property was valued by Dr. Wiel at $50,000 and through an exchange made recently the Walter Realty Co. was able to sell this beautiful property at a lesser figure and the purchaser is George McCormick, vice-president of the Southern Pacific Company, who has already taken a deed to the property and who will move in shortly.

Some of the finest plants, trees shrubs are on this property, many of them of full maturity, together with fountain, rockery, Chinese tea house, etc.

The Walter Realty Co. also sold to R. W. Richardson three acres and a home in Atherton. Also to Harry East Miller, Jr., acreage on Selby Lane on which he will soon erect a beautiful residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Bevilockway are receiving the congratulations of their friends upon the birth Tuesday at the Mills hospital in San Mateo of a baby daughter. Mrs. Bevilockway was formerly Miss Gerda Hundevadt.

The Modern Woman

EDITORIAL

WHAT a privilege to be a Woman of Today! How wide has grown her horizon! No longer is her life circumscribed by four walls. The modern woman is truly a Citizen of the World, intelligently participating in its affairs. Man, who was once prone to be alarmed over the imagined dire consequences if woman were given "free rein," has had occasion to change his views, for she has co-operated with him to make this a better world to live in.

Her influence is sought individually and collectively in politics, in commerce and in the arts. Her good will is of major importance in the distribution of the world's commodities. She is "up on things." She is eager to try what is new, not for the mere novelty of it, but to avail herself and her family of the best. She is openminded to innovations, and if the market offers her something that is superior to what she has, she is willing to be shown. By an intelligent process of eliminating the inferior and substituting the superior, her home is constantly becoming more attractive and efficient. In always demanding the best, she stimulates competition, which is "the life of trade." A merchant knows that if he can prove to her that his article is better for the same or less money, no false sentiment is going to make her cling to the old. Therefore, merchants are kept alert, each striving to give mildly better values, which has had a great deal to do with our present high standard of living. Her discriminating taste must be pleasant, and that the meals she serves to her family and guests are rightly balanced and appetizingly prepared.

She studies child welfare, and through Parent-Teacher associations co-operates with the schools in developing the children into finer citizens-to-be. Through club and church work she contributes her share to the betterment of the community she lives in.

She has not only kept step with progress, she has often been in the vanguard, breaking new trails, doing "impossible" things because she didn't know they couldn't be done. You will find her holding her own in the professions—you will find her exploring jungles and the uncharted northlands, you will find her in the laboratories of science, or winning her wings in aviation—in fact, she has invaded practically every field of activity from which she was once excluded, and is distinguishing herself in these various fields. No longer is her place exclusively "in the home," and yet her very emancipation has made her a better home maker. She has learned scientific methods with which to banish plague, ill health and inharmoniousness, which were the results of her once abysmal ignorance.

She is interested in everything—through the radio, the library, the periodicals that come to her house, the clubs she belongs to, the shows she attends, the advertisements she reads, the shop window displays she studies for new ideas, she is kept constantly informed of what the world is doing.

The new store is in a location which has been entirely re-arranged under the personal supervision of the new proprietor, and will form one of the most attractive stores in town.

McDonald Heirs Awarded Estate

The right to the estate of the late John McDonald, Pescadero hermit, was assured by the Superior Court yesterday to Miss Elizabeth McDonald and to Henry Hebring, a life-long friend of the deceased.

Miss McDonald and Hebring filed a complaint against J. C. McGovern, administrator of the estate, claiming that he had claimed a portion of the estate. This was denied by McGovern. The rights to an $18,000 note secured by a mortgage were awarded by the court to the two heirs.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Britschgl of Lowell street are the proud parents of a baby boy born last Friday at the Mills hospital in San Mateo. Mrs. Britschgl was formerly Miss Valda Stebbene.

HOWARD MANSION DESTROYED BY FIRE

Well-Known Residence Burns With Valued Art Treasures In Night Fire; Show Place of Peninsula

One of the most disastrous fires of many years for this section of the county on Monday night destroyed the palatial home of Michael Howard on the Woodside road, near the Menlo Park Country Club. The fire was, it is believed, the result of a short circuit in the wiring of the house.

The house was occupied by Michael Howard and his care-taker, S. Mangini. Howard was awakened by a sound which he thought to be someone in the house. He arose to summon Mangini, but found that the structure was enveloped by flames. He awakened the care-taker, and the two men escaped from the burning building, but such headway had been made by the flames that the two men were unable to even save a suit of clothes from the fire.

The Redwood City, Woodside and Menlo Park fire departments rushed to the scene of the fire, but could do nothing to save the building, so far had the flames progressed before they were discovered.

With the destruction of the Howard home, this vicinity is deprived of one of its finest residences. The loss is not alone of one of the palatial homes of the district, but within it, and now reduced to ashes was one of the finest collections of tapestry and art objects in the county.

Two years ago the Times-Gazette published a description of this home written by a life-long friend of the owner. That article is reproduced herewith.

San Mateo county has long been noted for its beautiful homes, particularly that portion of the southern end of the peninsula where in early days the Altimontes, the Selbys, Donohoes, Stanfords and Floods established big estates, there living in luxury and grandeur. The nabobs of Europe never enjoyed such luxury. The London Graphic in a recent issue lauded the peninsula saying among other things that there were only two other places in the world that enjoyed the even temperature of Menlo Park, Redwood City and those two favored countries were the Canary Islands and a portion of the Riviera. There are many estates in and around Redwood City, but there is none that rivals the beautiful Howard home on the Woodside road, a six minutes spin in an automobile from the center of the county seat.

This attractive place comprises twenty-eight acres of land nestled in the rolling hills, sheltered from winds, away from the reach of Jack Frost, and where tropical fruits grow luxuriantly. Bananas are growing there in profusion while oranges reach a state of perfection like those of southern California.

The elevation of the property gives one a magnificent view of bay and mountains, valley and undulating landscape stretching out to green hills, ripening orchards and to fertile spots. The scenery as beheld from the front porch of the

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Dossie of Arlington road had as their guests over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Will Stevens of San Francisco. The former is a brother of Mrs. Dossie.

Mr. and Mrs. Schweikert are receiving the congratulations of their friends upon the birth Friday evening of a baby daughter at the Mills hospital. This is the second child in the family, the other being a boy.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Hedge spent the week-end visiting their relatives in this city. They have been residing in San Francisco, but are planning to return to Redwood City within a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Cummings and Miss Cleone Cummings spent several days this week at Carmel.

cozy dwelling is entrancing and thrilling and once seen cannot be easily forgotten.

In front of the well-kept gardens surrounding the attractive home runs the Woodside road paved and smooth as glass, the delight of the motorist. Across this thoroughfare is located the Menlo Golf and Country Club, where the elite and wealthy meet on the links every day. The club is one of the most prominent and wealthiest in the state. The grounds, consisting of two hundred acres, are attractive and beautiful, there sloping hillsides are covered with a carpet of green, mingling with flower beds or choice shrubs. At the top of the hill, just opposite the front door of the Howard home, across the road, is the cozy clubhouse that cost in the neighborhood of a quarter of a million dollars.

To the rear of the Howard estate may be seen the Stanford buildings, while a little to the south looms Mount Hamilton, grand and awe-inspiring, and to the west the Sierra Morena mountains raise their peaks in supreme majesty and to the east in the distance is seen the busy city of Redwood, nestling close to its valuable water front which affords adjacent shipping facilities for the adjacent county.

The Howard dwelling is a snug, comfortable hacienda with wide porches nearly surrounding the structure, and from which one enjoys a beautiful view of the landscape. The rambling halls leading to large and cozy rooms, well furnished, where rare antiques and bric-a-brac may be seen and enjoyed. Blooming vines creep around the home, lending shade and fragrance to the scene.

To this almost idyllic home, Mr. Howard has brought as his guests men of note and rank who have sang the praises of the home in many countries.

Leading from the dwelling to the road in front is a palm drive with lawn on either side backed by flowering beds of every hue. At the end of the pretty drive near the home is a Bourgainvillea vine in full bloom. Perhaps nowhere else in the state can a prettier sight be seen. The plant, which is quite old, covers a large area. It is covered with an abundance of purple blossoms. One is inspired with a sight of this riot of blooms covering many yards and one lingers and views with amazement this floral phenomenon. Close by are ancient fig trees, crowded with ripening fruit, while not far distant is the family orchard, with choice fruit trees of numerous varieties and that never is harmed by the frost. The abundant water supply on the estate provides plenty of irrigation for all purposes so that almost any vegetable and fruit may be grown on the estate in surprising abundance.

The Howard home is a fit residence for the gods, one that a king might envy and where comfort and pleasure may be had and enjoyed by the most fastidious, just a place to secure a foretaste of heaven.

CLUB HEARS TALK ON MODERN DAIRY

An interesting talk on the dairy business was given before members of the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday evening by J. B. Stone of the Dairy Delivery Co. Garland, county milk inspector, and a member of the local service club.

Her Majesty The Modern Woman

IT'S a far cry back hundreds of years ago when woman was considered a chattel and endured the hardships of slavery and serfdom. Nor is there a more encouraging development for the future welfare of humanity than the continual evolution and development of woman. Through the ages we have heard of Woman's Sphere, and, with the passing of the years, this sphere has been a constantly enlarging one until today the Woman's Sphere practically encompasses the entire realm of activities that were formerly to be found only in the man's world.

Her majesty, the modern woman, stands on a basis of equality with man and is found in the front ranks as the leader in some of our most progressive movements. She is the mainstay of the three greatest factors in community life: the Home, the Church and the School. While man is still the major breadwinner, yet one-fifth of all persons, gainfully occupied, are girls and women. So well have they served modern industry, business and professional life could ill afford to do without them.

The greatest contribution that woman makes to America and to the community is in her role as wife and mother. She cares for the children, keeping constant watch over them and guiding them through their infancy and adolescence. She keeps the home, that great sanctuary of American life, and fosters the best interests of family life. Woman has much more to do with the Standard of living in the Home and for the family than does the man.

Although men are in the majority as wage earners, two-thirds of the family income is spent by women.

These expenditures are made in practically every field of activity. Today she is the chief customer of business. For example, women buy 78% of the pianos; 49% of men's socks; 81% of the groceries; 82% of department store merchandise; 98% of the silks; 78% of the drugs, 80% of the jewelry. An odd list, picked at random, but typical of the important part played by women in our modern world.

By intelligent and careful expenditure, women are making a vast contribution to the furthering of thrift and saving in American life—and to them we look for the upholding of the Community Ideals of.

Not All Children Have The Opportunity of Education

SCHOOL time is here again. The school houses that have remained silent and deserted during the summer months are now teeming with life. Within the nation's most important institution, the public school, many thousands of future citizens are receiving daily instructions. Lives are being moulded, destinies shaped. For upon the training received in the schools to a large extent depends their value to the community, state and country in later life. Then, upon these three there rests an equal responsibility of seeing that everything possible is done to aid the public school in its all important task.

Further, every boy and girl should have the opportunity of an education. It is almost unthinkable, hardly believable, that in this day of prosperity, of high standards of living, of education, there are sections of the United States where there are no schools, where the children grow up in ignorance, and often never learn to read or write. Not only is their value as citizens greatly decreased because of this lack of opportunity but they are deprived of many of the privileges of an educated person.

An example of such a community was revealed almost within the shadow of the nation's capital. A few weeks ago, fourteen-year-old Ray Burraker made his way unannounced into President Hoover's camp on the Rappahannock River in Virginia and presented the Chief Executive with a young 'possum. During conversation with the young mountaineer the President discovered that neither the donor nor his parents could read or write and practically the same was true of the other inhabitants in the mountain community. Mr. Hoover's sympathy and interest were aroused. He made plans for the erection of a schoolhouse and the employment of a teacher for the community, and this deplorable condition in this one section will be remedied. But what of the many other communities where similar conditions exist? President Hoover will not have camps near them all. If he did, there would hardly be a Ray Burraker near all of them with the desire to present the President with a 'possum.

There are, too, other instances of inequality of educational opportunities in the United States. It is admitted that the schools in the cities and more prosperous rural communities, with teachers trained in the most modern methods, with seam-heated and well ventilated buildings, and large playgrounds, leave little to be desired. But the little, poorly heated, inadequately or too well ventilated, one-room country school houses with the notched, well worn, antiquated benches, have not disappeared. It is in these, and they are all too numerous, that all ages and classes are crowded into the one room and await their turn to recite to a young teacher who can seldom boast of more than a high school education and a license issued by a lenient superintendent. Would the pupils of such schools have a fair chance in competition with those of the city and up-to-date rural schools? Will they not be seriously handicapped from the start in later life competition? Is such a situation just? If not, upon whom does the responsibility for its remedy rest?

If it is to be generally remedied and not in particular spots, there must be some central organization that can serve as a guiding hand for the general application of the remedy. This would be one of the functions of the Department of Education.

It is hoped that, as attention is again directed to the schools by their opening, the public will demand that education be given its proper place in national affairs by the establishment of such a department; that President Hoover's interest in the condition of one schoolless community will grow to include all such communities, and that he will insist upon a Department of Education with a Secretary in the Cabinet to aid in abolishing illiteracy in all parts of the United States.

25 Years Ago

Times-Gazette, Sept. 24, 1904
Axel Peterson and Reuben Bomberg returned home Monday after spending two weeks hunting in Mendocino county.

Edward Sampson was writing to friends that he enjoyed his week's visit at St. Louis, and was able to take in all the sights he desired in that time.

Robert Chatham was here from Pescadero the fore part of the week. He returned accompanied by Harry Lovie and Joe Cull, both of whom will remain until after the deer season closes on October 1.

The Methodist conference, which

Fire Prevention Week

OCTOBER 6 to '13 has been set aside as Fire Prevention Week. During that time public and private organizations and authorities will make an effort to instruct citizens in the fundamentals of doing away with our terrible fire waste.

In past years the fire rate has always gone down during the week, only to rise again to "normal" immediately after. It is the old case of a lesson going in one ear and out the other.

Fire is perhaps the greatest single menace to progress we must face. Every year it destroys property which, in terms of monetary value, would support whole governments, cover the country with paved highways, provide greater education facilities or do any number of other great services. And on top of this must be placed the still greater destruction in human life.

During Fire Prevention Week we will learn of the danger of neglected wiring, carelessly disposed of matches or cigarettes, piles of refuse, poor building construction and so on. But unless our citizens carry the lessons learned through the other 51 weeks of the year nothing will be gained.

Make Fire Prevention Week the start of a Fire Prevention Year.

More Knowledge of Government Needed

AMERICA'S greatest need is a "more complete and thorough knowledge on the part of our citizens of what their government is and for what it stands," says Governor Allen of Massachusetts.

"A well-informed electorate is the best guaranty we have that our officials will be of the right calibre. A keen interest on the part of those who constitute the government and a desire to inform themselves thoroughly upon every issue are the best assurances we have that government will be efficient. Prodigality and indifference to public interest and welfare usually result from ignorance or corruption."

That Labor Government

WHEN the reins of Britain's government were turned over to a labor government the world looked on with interest to see what would happen. Old Britain, so steeped in conservatism, was a little apprehensive of what would be done by the men whom she had learned from the Tory press to regard as radicals. But today, Ramsey MacDonald and his government find nothing but praise.

The labor government through its chancellor of the exchequer has arrived at a settlement of the international debt question which has elicited praise from even the conservatives; and MacDonald, himself, has done more to secure a limitation of armaments than any previous government has either done or contemplated. These two achievements and the consequent increase of good feeling among the nations of the world must stand to the credit of the labor leaders. With such proof in achievement, Britain may rest at peace under the guidance of her "radical" leader.

Imitate Business Principles

IT is time that government imitated modern business methods. The great industries of the present are notable for their efficiency, economy and high standards of service. It is an unfortunate fact that local governments, on the other hand, still exist to a great extent in a sort of Dark Age of waste, duplication of effort, and antiquated methods.

Modern successful business might be said to have a general motto: "To give a maximum of service at a minimum cost." Only through the application of this principle has the great progress of recent years been made.

Business pays good wages for good work, keeps overhead as low as is possible and sells a high grade commodity or service to the public for a fair price. Our local units of government which have grown steadily more expensive in recent years, might adopt the same principles and save taxes for grateful citizens.

The Congregational church has organized the Kingdom Extension Society as a branch activity. The purpose of the organization is to give systematically to missions. The following officers have been selected: President, C. C. Kirtland; Vice-presidents, H. E. Holmquist, L. F. Behrens, Mrs. R. Brown; secretary, Miss Ethel Dodge; treasurer, Miss Clara Shelley; auditor, H. G. Watrous.

The Methodist church has been undergoing repairs and is now completed and will be opened for the usual service next Sunday morning. Rev. W. Kent, the newly appointed pastor, will occupy the pulpit both morning and evening.

was held at Pacific Grove, has stationed several pastors, who were formerly in Redwood City, at the following places: J. J. Martin, Healdsburg; O. M. Hester, Benicia; E. B. Wining, 34th avenue, Oakland. The Rev. Willford Kent will come to Redwood City to occupy the pulpit vacated by Dr. Gibbon.

At the Democratic primaries held in this city Thursday the following delegates were elected to attend the county convention to be held in San Mateo next Saturday: Dr. W. M. Barret, P. McCarthy, J. V. Swift, J. P. Coleman, Wm. Hovey, J. L. Pipkin, H. F. Butts, E. E. Dulac, A. Kincaid, Ralph Cummins, P. J. Foley and Chris Stilleon.

Lambert Winner Of First Place In Talk Contest

Speaking on the subject, "My Value in Kiwanis," five members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club on Wednesday delivered five minute talks as a part of the public speaking contest arranged by the Kiwanis International. The speakers were C. G. Lambert, E. B. Hinman, Phil Seagrave, Gordon Seeley and Sam Winkiebleck.

The chairman of the meeting was the vice-president, Roscoe Stephens, who was introduced by Edward Harrison, president of the club. The speakers were judged by a committee of judges from other clubs.

The result of the contest was that the first place was awarded to Charles Lambert; Seeley and Winkiebleck followed with second and third place. The talks were all so good that considerable difficulty was experienced by the judges in selecting the best three.

Similar contests are being held in each club in the United States and Canada. Winners from each club meet those of other clubs in the division; winners from the division meet in the district contest. And the winners from the various districts will compete for first place in the International. C. G. Lambert, who was selected as first place this year, was also the representative of the local club last year and was able to participate in the district competition.

State Roads Show High Traffic Rate

(Capitol News Bureau Service) SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26.—Headed for double present traffic by 1940 at the present annual increase of nearly 10 per cent, California highways today presented a new problem to taxpayers and the highway commission alike.

With all classes of travel and practically every route showing heavy gains as compared with a year ago, recreational lure sent the percentage of vehicles swarming on mountain, resort and lake roads up for an amazing gain of 31, the division of highways announced today.

Count made in July at 956 stations covering every state highway route, the division announced showed a gain of five percent for Sunday and Monday travel on main north and south routes, including Pacific Highway, the San Joaquin Valley Highway and the San Francisco-San Diego route; of five percent on Monday over laterals between inland and coast routes including the Tahoe-Ukiah-Cholame laterals and similar roads, and of 16 and 19 percent respectively for Sunday and Monday traffic on interstate connections.

The average gain for the year on all routes was 8.9 percent on Sunday and 9.6 percent on Monday, an average of better than nine percent which has been maintained for the past five years.

Construction work, in many instances has sent the traffic count low in certain localities, but in such cases, neighboring routes show proportionately heavy increases.

Making gains of 7.2 percent and 13.3 percent respectively for Sunday and Monday counts, the San Francisco-San Diego highway led in gains for north and south routes. At Redwood City the Monday count climbed from 11,771 to 12,855 percent.

Well Laid Plot Nipped in Bud

(Capitol News Bureau Service) SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26.—As a detective, Deputy Superintendent of Education Sam Cohn is a good deputy superintendent — and also a good sleuth. Fish and Game Notes

By J. H. NEUSTADT
California is blessed with nature's gift of wild life to a greater extent than many other states and yet there is less united effort to maintain it. The County Sportsmen's Club is doing great work to bring to every citizen the value of preserving this great gift while we yet have a goodly portion.

Arkansas sportsmen have realized that fish and game destroyed cannot be replaced and have (to assist their fish and game commission) purchased two licenses voluntarily where only one was necessary.

This permitted the commission to put seventy additional acres under water and raise one million bass, bream and crappie.

The lesson derived from this is not the million fish but the understanding and co-operation between sportsmen and their commission.

Virginia has awakened to the almost total loss of her Bob-white quail and is making great effort to rehabilitate it, but when gone, the task is a great one.

The state is calling for the co-operation and help of citizens, sportsmen and landowners, and is now making every effort to undo the indifference of the past.

Herein lies a lesson. Children should be taught to study wild life and protect it.

At the game farm of the E. E. Du Pont de Nemours & Company a mallard duck raised as her first attempt, two ducklings.

In due time, the parent incubated a second lot of eggs and the young ducks, after playing and swimming all day, retired at night to the new nest of the mother, one on each side of her, snuggled down close and rested.

Instinct showed them raising young was a tedious process and that their presence by the side of the mother was evidence of their attachment and affection.

Wild animals decrease where ever man takes possession of the country. In the early American history, this country teemed with profusion of wild life.

Thousands of caribou and musk oxen, millions of buffalo antelope and deer.

Wolves, coyotes, black and grizzly bears, mountain lions and lynx ranged the plains or occupied the mountainous western part of the continent.

Fur bearers, beavers, muskrats, land and sea otters, martens, minks, foxes and others were so plentiful that the U. S. and Canada supplied the greater part of the world's fur. The same applied to the sea shore, millions of seals and walrus, sea lions, sea otters, sea elephants and whales.

Preserve all but the predatory animal life or the children of the next generation will be strangers to these fascinating fellow inhabitants of man.

Tire Service Man Will Visit Here To Assist Car Owners

As evidence of the interest the Fisk Tire Company have in the owners of Fisk equipped automobiles, they have arranged to have one of their factory trained men visit the Davies Auto Repair Company, their local dealer, on Saturday, the 28th, for the purpose of consulting with local motorists regarding their tire problems.

Tires of today are delivering phenomenal mileage, says Al Davies, averaging probably 20,000 miles, with such records as 35,000 and 40,000 miles not unusual. Frequently, however, much mileage is lost due to misalignment of wheels, unequal brakes, and understated or improper types of tires for the work expected.

The Fisk Company have, therefore, undertaken a program of educating their dealers and automobile owners in the proper use of tires to the end of eliminating many abuses and giving the motorist more miles for his dollar.

Colleen Moore Coming to the Sequoia Theatre

Enacting an appropriate role as a regular little Irish girl of Killarney, Colleen Moore demonstrated her ability in talking pictures to the entire satisfaction of all the critics in the first showing of "Smiling Irish Eyes," in which Miss Moore makes her dialogue debut at the Sequoia Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, October 8, 9, and 10. The picture is quite deserving of any enthusiasm that welcomes it, for never has charming Colleen been presented in a more entertaining picture. Through the addition of Vitaphone Colleen not only adds an effective speaking voice to her delightful screen personality, but several melodies in a pleasing soprano. The fact that she scores so decisively in her first talking picture despite her lack of stage experience, indicates that the screen will not be monopolized in the future by recruits from the footlights.

The story of "Smiling Irish Eyes" is a romantic tale of Killarney Colleen and her Irish sweetheart portrayed by James Hill. The picture is liberally sprinkled with comedy episodes and promises to be far the best that this pleasing little star has ever made.

Back Again From Wide Open Spaces

By O. S. OLESON
The fatted calf has been killed and the prodigal is now busily engaged in carving it up and serving it to his many friends, who are rejoicing in his return. The prodigal is none other than H. Conacher, the smiling butcher at the Skaggs-Safeway store here. Conacher says he has been spending his vacation in Canada, fishing in the northern lakes.

Conacher looks very much the same as he did when he left except that he has developed a prominent red nose, which he explains as sunburn, but his friends attribute it to his sojourn north of the border.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy R. Kennedy have returned from an extended motor tour of the middle west, and to many points of interest in the eastern states. They have been away on this trip for several weeks.

"Everyman" Performed on Porch of a Cathedral

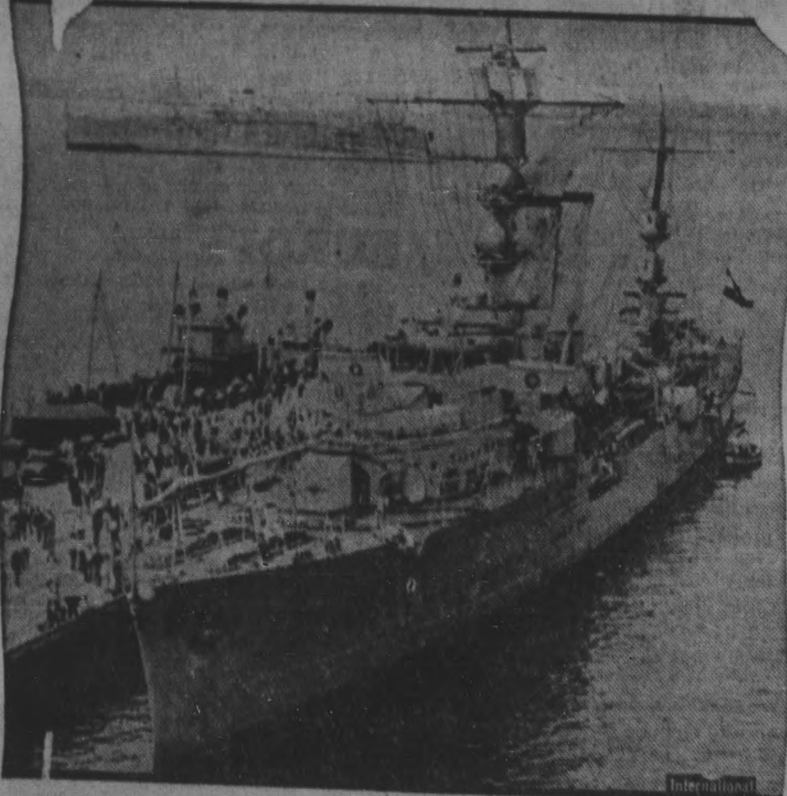

For the first time in the history of England, music and drama were presented in a cathedral on the occasion of the Canterbury Cathedral festival. Plays took place outside the west door and in the chapter house, concerts were held in the nave, serenades in the cloisters, and chamber music in the new chapter house. The photograph shows the folk dancers dancing before "Death" during the performance of the drama "Everyman" outside the great west door.

Training for Airplane "Crash" Rescue Work

A school for training personnel in airplane "crash" rescue work has been opened at the naval air station at Washington. Particular emphasis is laid on rescues where the plane falls into the water, subjecting its occupants to the additional hazard of drowning. The photograph shows a crew simulating the rescue of the occupants of a plane which has "cracked up" and is submerged except for the tail.

In Bolivia all the useful minerals belong originally to the state. Canada's area comprises one-third of the land surface of the British empire. Bank and jewelry stores are installing secret tear gas systems to foil burglars. The marble quarries at Carrara were first worked by the Romans about 175 B. C.

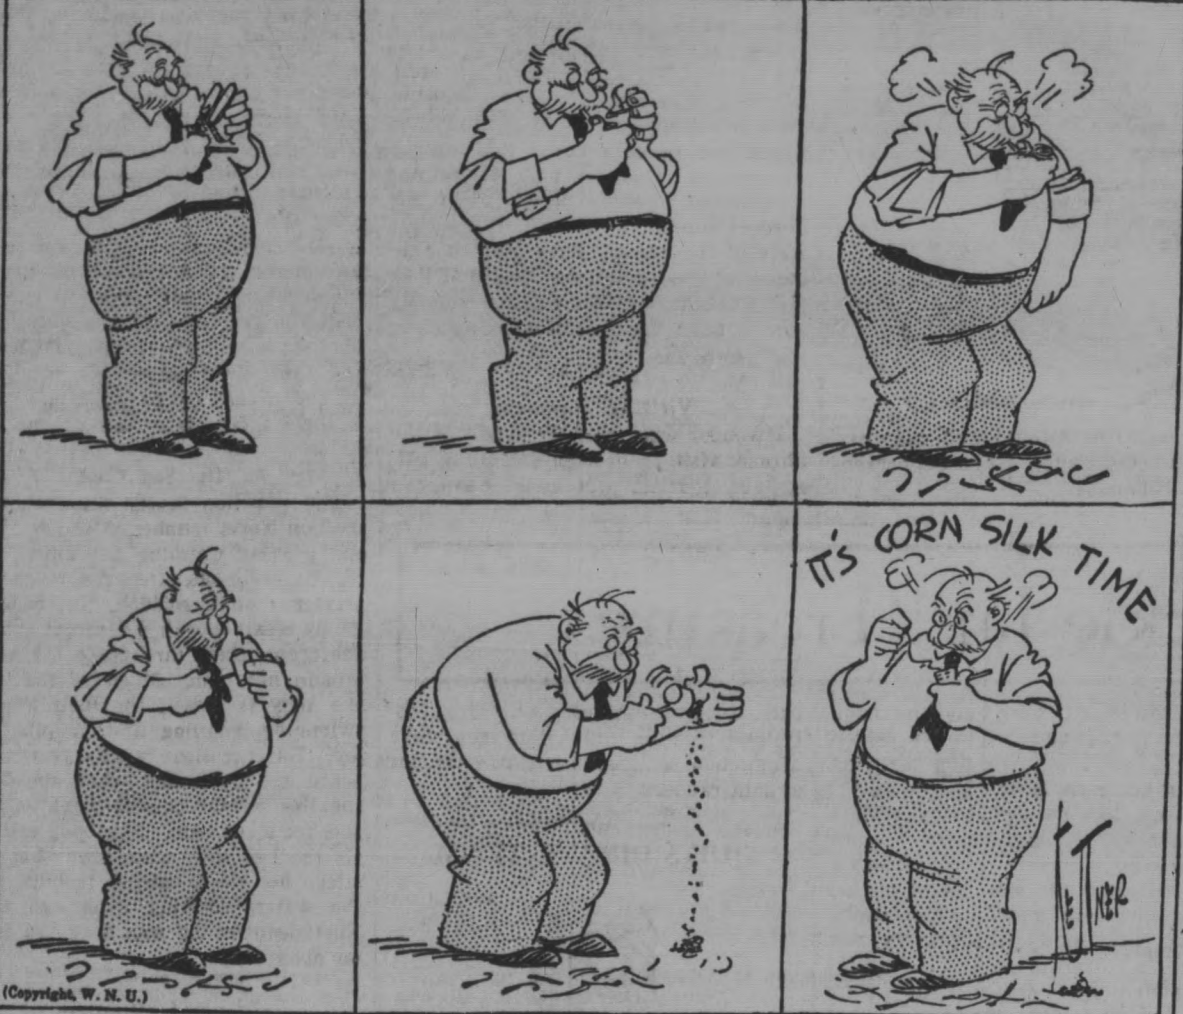

The moon's actual color is brown, astronomers believe. Potatoes were introduced into New England from Ireland. Coal has been found 800 miles north of the Arctic circle. The French perfumery industry is valued at $300,000,000 a year. United States naval vessels were the first ships to be equipped with electric lights.

Seek "Pickle Jar" Treasure

Texas.—Hunt for $10,000 remains buried in a pickle jar has been started in various parts of Texas and other parts of Mexico.
$10,000 is said to have been left by Harry J. Leahy, who was murdered August 2, 1926.
J. A. Ramsey of Mathis, Tex., is the only man who knows where the treasure is buried.
There is such a buried treasure in the execution of Leahy sent to the gallows. They had a long talk.
"It is a long talk," said Ramsey.
He has a long talk with Leahy about the treasure.
The belief that Leahy buried treasure is as much a mystery as the buried treasure's location.
What became of all the treasure has not been revealed. Leahy has not been seen since he was killed.

she believes that there may also have been buried personal jewelry which Doctor Ramsey was wearing when he left his home in May, 1926.
Ramsey then was called by a Mexican to come to the aid of a Mexican woman who was said to be seriously ill. His body later was found buried in a shallow grave on a lonely ranch in Live Oak county. His jewelry was gone.
Suspicion first attached to Leahy when Mrs. Ramsey offered a reward for her husband, whom she believed to have been kidnapped. Leahy offered to conduct a search but insisted the reward be for his body, dead or alive.
A motive was found in anger because Doctor Ramsey had come into possession of the Leahy ranch during a period of ill fortune for the family.
Leahy visited Laredo, on the Mexican border, between the time Doctor Ramsey disappeared and his arrest.
This has led to belief that he may have concealed something across the Rio Grande.
Hamer, a noted figure in law enforcement along the border, had long been a friend of Leahy who frequently assisted the officers in the days of pitched battles with cattle raiders and marauders.

Big Girls Wanted

Girls are simply out of luck here if they are not tall. Show girls, Floren-Ziegfeld informs me, are going to be bigger and taller than ever. Only he puts it this way: American girls are growing bigger and taller, so there is nothing else to do but use them in the show business. But even in business stature is a deciding factor. A restaurant chain advertises for "Hostesses, age 20-30. Tall, attractive young women. Permanent, worth-while positions for those who qualify." Nothing is said about mental requirements.

Lights of New York

By GRANT DIXON

Vox Populi

Not long ago a newspaper polled its readers on the question whether New York should have Sunday theatrical performances. As it stands now, Sunday theaters are barred by law, but the movie stage presentations and vaudeville shows get by under the guise of sacred concerts. They prove they are sacred concerts and not commercial enterprises by not distributing programs. As I was saying this newspaper printed balloons on which the readers could mark an X for yes or an X for no. There was a deluge of replies—hundreds of supposedly intelligent New Yorkers were wide of the mark. They did not realize what the ballot was for, and they didn't seem to know that Sunday shows have always been banned in their own city.

Visiting Firemen

I wonder what was the origin of the phrase, visiting firemen—meaning hit-and-run tourists who must have the aid of permanent residents to see the town right. I first heard of visiting firemen in Paris, and many's the v. f. that I entertained there. They ask you to do the strangest things. But to a friend of mine has fallen the opportunity of doing what I consider the strangest of all tours with an outlander. This girl, who works in a publishing house and is a successful short-story writer, was called upon to entertain a woman who might very well have been the little old lady from Duhague. This little old lady comes from an illustrious family whose name has been prominent in New York ever since the days of the big rum deal for Manhattan Island. And what must she do but choose the hottest day of the summer to visit, with her friend's help, the graves of all her ancestors!

She has a book of the family history, and the tour began at the old Trinity churchyard and ended, hours later, in the far reaches of the Bronx.

Our Sea Lion

The sea lion in the Central park zoo is a clever member of the fur sex, and I enjoy watching her outwit the crowds. She has, of course, much less privacy than a goldfish, for, being a happy creature with a sense of humor, she draws great throngs to the fence around her bath. Much of the time she sports herself for their benefit, swimming, snorting and yapping for joy. But occasionally she yearns for peace and quiet, and when she does, she lies on the cement bank of her pool for a sun bath. Her body catches all the healthful sun's rays; but she sticks her head, ostrich fashion, into the water, covering eyes and ears.
That dreads the sound of the chatter about her.

SMART NECKPIECES

DIPPING INTO SCIENCE

Beeswax
Beeswax is a fatty substance secreted by bees and they consume great quantities of honey before swarming in order to produce wax used in building combs. Ten to twenty pounds of honey is required for each pound of wax. To produce wax for commercial use, the comb is boiled and the melted wax comes to the surface and hardens when skimmed off.

Rodents Worried Officials

Shanghai.—A telegram forecasting the arrival of 300 hamsters for shipment to Penang recently disrupted the equanimity of the Dollar Line steamship offices in Shanghai.

The message gave no particulars except that the shipment would be accompanied by an attendant who would look after the welfare of the consignment. The official to whom the message was referred called for the freight tariff files. He searched in vain for a classification that would enlighten him. He called for a dictionary and an encyclopedia, but was unable to find any information relating to hamsters.

During the luncheon hour he inquired of every one he met, "What is a hamster?" Some said a young pig.
Others defined the word as "a man who sells hams." Still another was sure it was a "container for soiled clothes."

Eventually the shipment arrived and with it a letter of explanation. The hamster is a rodent peculiar to China.
It is larger than a mouse and smaller than a rat. Each of the animals was inclosed in a separate cage. The consignment was being shipped to Penang on a Dollar steamship and thence to be transhipped to Camp Gauthai, in Assam, India, to be used for experimental purposes in connection with the work of the Kala-Azar commission, which is investigating cures for tropical fever. The rodents were shipped by the Peking Union Medical college.

They were fed with cooked black beans and were accompanied from Peking to Shanghai by a Chinese attendant, who saw that they received the best of care.

On board the Dollar liner President Johnson they were cared for by a doctor en route to Penang, who accepted the responsibility of seeing that his charges received the necessary quota of cooked black beans a day.

This Dog Has Full Paid Gratitude Debt found him dying in the road, for the second time paid off his debt.

Mrs. Gale, working in the field, ran her skirts. She found the kitchen in flames and rescued her son, Robert, three.

Not long ago Robert crawled out on the highway. A motorist stopped his machine to see the dog tug the baby out of danger.

Grizzly Grows Scarce in Pacific Forests

Olympia, Wash.—There are about five adult grizzly bears left for as many lucky hunters in this state, according to a recent census of forest rangers, and probably four or five more in other Pacific coast states. In the West, where the grizzlies once ruled the mountain forests, civilization has all but exterminated the creatures.

There is material in the life story of the dwindling species upon which to base an epic or to keep a writer of animal fiction supplied for years. Efforts are being made to interest congress in legislation to protect the few remaining specimens.

MODERN CONVENIENCES

THOMAS ARKLE CLARK

Illinois.

Looking around for the telephone in the hotel room in which I was staying in St. Louis.
Someone had misplaced it. I opened the drawer of the stand that stood at the head of my bed, but in stead of discovering the lost directory I found a complete radio
set. I had entertained this modern attraction which has been installed in so many hotels all over the country. By pulling the little lever and turning a rim, I could listen to a concert in Birmingham or get the latest reports on the war, or hear President Hoover on farm relief. A radio in every room is the latest hotel so-closet in the door and ringing up the office. There is stationery and telegraph blanks and pen and ink in a convenient desk, and pins and needle and thread and an assortment of buttons on the dresser to repair the wreck of your wearing apparel incident to a hasty getting out of the pullman. When you stretch out on the comfortable mattress and draw the clean sheets about you, there is a reading lamp at the head of the bed, and at your elbow a telephone and you can prop yourself up with two big pillows and talk to your friends a thousand miles away if you wish, or read yourself into pleasant drowsiness. If there is anything else you can think of which would add to your comfort or convenience all you have to do is to press a button and it will be brought to you.

FILIPINO ARMY OFFICER

SUCH IS LIFE — Pretty Small!

By Charles Sughrue

Tiger "Did His Stuff" and Guests Scattered

An exciting and novel idea for a party was originated by the Marchesa Casati, Lord Hastings' beautiful mother-in-law at Venice. The marchesa received her guests seated on a golden sphere with a real tiger lying at her feet. The animal had been brought from a local zoo, and its keeper, disguised as a guest, was in close attendance. So enchanted, however, was the keeper by the splendor of the scene—all the most beautiful women of Venice were there, and it was a costume affair—that at the moment when his services were urgently required he was off his guard. The tiger was asleep, and one of the women guests, mistaking it for a rug, gave it a slight dig with her foot. Immediately the "rug" gave vent to a roar which froze the marrow of all present and trotted toward the door. Many of the women fled screaming from the room. Fortunately the keeper was able to recapture the beast without trouble.—London Mail.

Old Mill Makes Parchment

The English town of Havant Church, six miles from Portsmouth, is the scene of an industry which if local claims be true, has been carried on by the same methods and on the same site for 1,000 years.

The parchment made there was famous throughout Europe in days gone by and is still preserved in many libraries and museums in Europe, but it is the United States that keeps the mill going at present. There has been recently a great demand from America for English parchment to be used for diplomas and certificates in American universities, and though the demand has been great enough to cause a shortage and send up the price, this seems no deterrent.

FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it if they never gripes;
children liked its pleasant taste.
All drugstores today have Dr.
Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.

White Rhino Becoming Rare

The white rhinoceros, the third largest of living animals, is rapidly decreasing in numbers. They haunt a small area on the Nile in Uganda, where there are wide expanses of papyrus swamps and intense heat.
These huge mammals, noted for their slowness and their remarkably keen sense of smell, are not really white, but a pale, dusty brown. The herd is thought to number only about 45 animals and is under government protection.

Hunter's Luck

The prize story of the California deer season was recounted by William Thompson, of Santa Rosa. He fired at a buck which was standing on a steep bank and the animal fell mortally wounded. In rolling down the bank the deer locked horns with another buck, which had been under cover.
The subsequent tangle enabled Thompson to shoot the second deer, his season's limit.

Recovered His Horse

Anthony Wasko of Towanda, Pa., knows his horse and his horse knows him. It had been missing for a week.
Anthony discovered a cave-in of an abandoned coal mine shaft where the horse had been grazing. He called down the shaft. The horse answered him and Anthony went for block and tackle. The horse was pulled out unharméd.

The Right Way to Redye Fine Silks

Textile makers always use special
dyes for silk or wool.
They know that is the best way. The makers of Diamond Dyes are the first to enable home dyers to follow this plan.

Next time you want to dye some of your more valuable articles of silk or wool, try the special Diamond Dyes in the Blue Package.
They will give these materials clearer, more brilliant colors than any "all-purpose" dye. And they are just as easy to use as ordinary dyes. Like the white package Diamond Dyes, these dyes contain an abundance of the highest quality anilines. The blue package dyes silk or wool only; the white package dyes, or tints, any material.

To Conduct Whist Games

H. Bloomington of San Jose has leased the Ahlert hall on the state highway near the San Francisco creek to conduct a whist club. Games are to be given every Monday and Friday evenings.

Furnival Acquitted

A jury in Judge Cook's court on Wednesday acquitted J. P. Furnival of the charge of disturbing the peace filed against him by Chief of Police Furman some weeks ago. The case was prosecuted by Furman, who made the arrest, and Furnival was defended by A. J. Stebbins, the widely known attorney of Redwood City. The jury deliberated only a few minutes when it returned with the verdict of acquittal.

Council Meeting Tuesday Evening

The council met in regular session on Tuesday evening with a full membership present. A letter was read from the mayor of Palo Alto, P. H. Christensen, asking the council to send a representative to a meeting to be held in the city hall there on October 16 to discuss the matter of eliminating grade crossings in this community. Christensen called attention to the recent accident at the Oak Grove avenue. The council deferred the matter until next meeting.

The planning commission was appropriated the sum of $25 as a contingent fund to take care of emergency expenditures.

In response to a letter from Mayor Beeger of Redwood City inviting the council to meet with the council of Redwood City to take steps to wards widening the state highway from San Mateo to Palo Alto, making a one hundred foot roadway, the council agreed to meet with that body as a whole. A petition was read signed by the citizens of Robles avenue, protesting against the proposed improvement of that street, saying they thought that a less expensive improvement would suffice. The petition was deferred until the time set for hearing the protest as provided by law. The taxpayers on Harvard avenue petitioned the council to have the street improved according to the latest methods. The petition was referred to the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications.

Walker of the street department, declared that a certain nuisance caused by rubbish and growing grass on San Mateo Drive should be removed. No action was taken on the request.

County Recorder Rice called the attention of the council to the new law governing the filing of maps in subdivisions. The letter was referred to the planning commission.

On motion of Weeden it was ordered that the council purchase a filing cabinet to cost $163. Weeden explained that the cabinet was fire proof and ought to be purchased instead of a cheaper one for which the council at the last meeting appropriated the sum of $100.

Blake brought up the subject of appointing a new poundmaster. He said that the City of Atherton was about to appoint one who would live towards the bay shore, where the dogs would not disturb the nightly slumbers of those living in more thickly populated districts. Other members thought it would not be proper to declare the office vacant rather it would be better for the present poundmaster to resign.

No further action was taken.

H. Bloomington, who conducts a whist club at San Jose, appeared before the council asking to conduct a similar club here. There was no law governing the matter, so he was told to go on and start his organization but that he would have to pay a merchant's license. To this he agreed.

The building inspector reported that during the month he had issued permits amounting to $32.00. Of these 19 was for building, 10 plumbing and 3 electrical.

The city clerk was appropriated the sum of $25 for a contingent fund.

Walker called the attention of the council to a new building being erected on Robles avenue, where the chimney was three feet above the roof, when it should be only two as provided by the building ordinance. No action was taken in the matter.

After auditing bills aggregating over $1000, the council adjourned until the next regular meeting.
